

About this blog

February 5, 2015 |

Every problem has a solution, better yet; every crisis represents an opportunity. Puerto Rico faces serious economic and social challenges and there is no shortage of ideas for solutions. But we need to go beyond ideas and get into action.

Through this blog I, and my guest contributors, will identify and put into perspective those challenges and propose actionable solutions supported by solid facts. Puerto Rico has the resources to propel itself into a promising future.

However, for that to happen we must put aside criticism and negative attitudes and start to THINK BIG.
